CAPT. WADE BROWN MODEL OFFICIAL

Accepted Appointment at Instance of Citizens.

Has Enforced Cleanliness in City Jail and Kept Hall in the Best of Order.

EXCELLENT MAN FOR PLACE

Enforced cleanliness and kindly but firm treatment is what city prisoners now must expect to find under the administration of Capt. Wade Brown, the best jailer Paducah ever had. The city hall, upstairs and down, bears testimony to his efficiency and zeal. He is liked by all the officials for the way he looks after the city's property.

Captain Brown is a union man, a former steamboat engineer and one time machinist in the United States mint at New Orleans under President Arthur.

Since 1871 he has been a citizen of Kentucky and was one of the state's representatives at the New Orleans exposition. He was postmaster at Woodville and for two years was deputy United States marshal. Although Marshal Long brought influence to bear on Captain Brown to induce him to continue in the government service Captain Brown was prevailed upon to accept the appointment of city jailer at the hands of Mayor James P. Smith. Captain Brown's appointment was dictated by the best interests of the city.

Mayor Smith consulted, not merely politicians, but representative citizens of all parties before naming Captain Brown. Captain Brown's appointment was a surprise to those who had been speculating on the matter, because he was not an applicant, and when Mayor Smith decided upon him he did not know whether Captain Brown would accept.

LABOR BILLOT CAN'T BE DELIVERED.

Typographical Union Leaders Declares Such Control Unlawful.

Washington, Oct. 10.—Declaring that it would be suicidal to the labor movement for "any man or set of men" to deliver the vote of organized labor to any party, President Norman E. McPhail, of the Boston Mass. Typographical Union, has written a letter to Chief Willis L. Moore, of the United States weather bureau, declaring that the labor vote as a ballot cannot be delivered. The letter reads:

Dear Mr. Moore—In reply to the question you ask me, I will state that, in my opinion, the vote of organized labor in this country as a body will not, should not, and cannot be delivered to any one party by any one man or set of men. To allow such a thing would be suicidal to the labor movement of the country. Members of labor unions, as citizens, have the right and should carefully consider the platform and promises of the different political parties and should vote as they believe the broadest and best interests of our country lie. There can be no objection to this from any source and it is something which every citizen should do. To claim that any man or set of men as has been blazoned forth in the newspapers will deliver the vote of organized labor to any party is absurd, as it is an impossibility. Sincerely yours,

(Signed) NORMAN E. McPHAIL.

WOMAN'S BACKACHE

The back is the mainspring of woman's organism. It quickly calls attention to trouble by aching. It tells, with other symptoms, such as nervousness, headache, pains in the joints, weight in the lower part of the body, that a woman's feminine organism needs immediate attention. In such cases the sure remedy which speedsily removes the cause, and restores the feminine organism to a healthy, normal condition is LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND.

Mrs. Will Young, of 2 Columbia Ave., Rockland, Me., says:

"I was troubled for a long time with dreadful backaches and a pain in my side, and was miserable in every way. I doctored until I was discouraged and thought I would never get well. I read what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for others and decided to try it; after taking three bottles I can truly say that I never felt so well in my life."

Mrs. Augustus Lyon, of East Earl, Pa., writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I had very severe backaches, and pressing-down pains. I could not sleep, and had no appetite. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured me and made me feel like a new woman."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN. For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, headache, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration.

"Some people," remarked the demoralizer, "never seem to be around when wanted."

"Well," rejoined the moralizer, "it is better to be absent when wanted than to be present when you are not wanted."—Chicago News.

Doctors and lawyers have at least one good trait in common. They never give advice before it is asked for.

SURVIVAL OF THE FITT.

The cracked and noisy pillow That survives the hardest knocks; The gown that least becomes us Which outwears our favorite frock. The broken-ribbed umbrella That confronts us, rainy days. While our own pearl-handled cane surrenders in some other hall rack stings.

'Tis the coarse and common fabric. Graced with patches through ends and dust. While our best and finest linen Gets the coffee-stain and rust.

'Tis the weed that's most obnoxious That is left to spread and grow. While the "slip" most dearly cherished Falls a victim to the hoe.

'Tis the friend our heart has longed for Who can "just a minute" stay. While the family aversion Volunteers to spend the day.

Thus numberless examples Do not prove one little bit. The correctness of the saying, "The survival of the fit."

After All He Was There.

J. A. Pease, the chief liberal whip, related at the dinner given to him by the Elks club that during an all-night sitting of the House of Commons a certain member was, as he thought, absent. The gentleman was really present at every division, but he was snatching sleep at intervals in one of the recesses of the House.

Mr. Pease, however, not having noticed him in the division lobby, sent a telegram to his home at 7 o'clock in the morning, saying, "Come down as once and relieve the guard and those at work all night."

The member turned up at his own house at 8 o'clock in the morning and expected to find a warm welcome from his wife and family and a good deal of sympathy for having been in the House all night.

But his wife's greeting was: "Where have you been?" He replied: "I have been at the house at an all-night sitting."

"Now, it's no use you telling me lies," said the good lady, and she produced from under her pillow Mr. Pease's telegram.—London Evening Standard.

That Was Enough.

"Yes, there's a new baby at Magley's house, and it takes after the mother."

"Well, that's a comfort, anyway."

"Why, have you ever seen Mrs. Mugley?"

"No, but I've seen Mugley."—Philadelphia Press.

BEAUTIFUL WOMEN

Use and Recommend

NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE

MISS MILDRED HOLLAND,
the Charming and deservedly Popular Theatrical Star, writes as follows:

"I am delighted with Newbro's Herpicide. It is just what I have been looking for. I find that it not only prevents dandruff, but that it stops the hair from falling out. It is a most delightful hair dressing, and no other toilet article is complete without it."

(Signed) MILDRED HOLLAND.

A woman to be pretty must have pretty hair. There is a subtle charm about beautiful hair that lends more to personal adornment than all of the skill of all of the "beauty doctors" combined. The hair need not be of extraordinary or abnormal length, but it must have that distinctiveness of appearance that comes from intelligent care, and is the result of perfect hair health.

The most cultured ladies in every community use Newbro's Herpicide; and when you see a head of hair that glistens with beauty and is radiant with life, it is a fairly good indication that Newbro's Herpicide has been used.

A common cause of dullness of the hair is the presence of fine dust and soil in the streets that is kept in constant motion by tail-coats, automobiles, etc. This fine dust—frequently laden with disease germs—adheres to the hair and dulls its natural luster.

A delightful way to cleanse and beautify the hair is to rub it with Newbro's Herpicide and draw it carefully through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. It may be done daily, or less often, as desired.

The result of this cleansing process will prove a surprise, not only in the amount of dirt removed, but in the added beauty of the hair and the sense of cleanliness and comfort that follows. Shampooing will also remove this dirt, but too frequent washing of the hair is harmful.

Newbro's Herpicide is the Original remedy that "kills the dandruff germ." It eradicates dandruff and stops falling hair. It is the only real scalp prophylactic in existence. A delightful and refreshing hair dressing. Stops itching of the scalp almost instantly.

Guaranteed under the Food and Drug Act, June 30, 1906. Serial No. 115.

MILDRED HOLLAND

GENEVA THOMAS

DIES AT HOME OF PARENTS IN HOWLANDTOWN.

Two-Year-Old Child Succumbs to an Attack of Diphtheria in Short Time.

Geneva Thomas, the two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Thomas, of Maplewood Terrace, Howlandtown, died at 1:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon of diphtheria. The child was stricken Thursday and lived but 24 hours.

The funeral will be conducted this afternoon at 3 o'clock by the Rev. D. W. Hooks. The burial will be at Highland cemetery.

Slate Used Instead of Chalkboards.

One of the most noticeable of the developments met with in a tour of the coast towns of New England is the use of slates at the junction of bridge and Washington streets, Belfast, Me.

The buildings consist of a large square, two-story house, with a stable, all covered on both roof and walls with slate.

The estate was for many years the property of the late Sir John Lubbock.

NO GUSHER

But Tells Facts About Postum.

"We have used Postum for the past eight years," writes a Wisconsin lady, "and drink it three times a day. We never tire of it."

"For several years I could scarcely eat anything on account of dyspepsia, bloating after meals, palpitation, sick headache—in fact was in such misery and distress I tried living on hot water and tea for nearly a year."

"I had quit coffee, the cause of my trouble, and was using hot water, but this was not nourishing."

"Hearing of Postum I began drinking it and my ailments disappeared, and now I can eat anything I want without trouble."

"My parents and husband had about the same experience. Mother would often suffer after eating, while yet drinking coffee. My husband was a great coffee drinker and suffered from indigestion and headache."

"After he stopped coffee and began Postum both ailments left him. He will not drink anything else now and we have it three times a day. I could write more but am no gusher—only state plain facts."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville" in packages. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true and full of human interest.

Since, Captain Alden's death the house has been rented for a boarding house, but is now unoccupied.—Boston Globe.

County Court Clerk.

election to the office of Clerk of the McCracken County Court subject to the action of the Democratic party.

Daily Thought.

There is no faith without some feeling for our fellows.

Don't forget to register Tuesday.

At least some of our public men have not abandoned the art of letter writing for the easier post card habit.

Some critics may think Miss Barrymore did not elevate society a great deal, but they must admit she jacked it up considerably in her interview.

Candidates are funny fellows. First they make their platforms; then they go around fixing up their fences, and they spend the last weeks of the campaign nailing lies.

Mr. Clark is a member of the police force, and the police and fire commissioners always suspend policemen during their political activity, as the position of patrolman is not properly a political office. Wade Brown happens to hold a political office, which he is filling most effectively and conscientiously. That's the answer.

A PLEASANT VOICE.

Sounds good to again hear from our old friend former Mayor James Lang. The last statement from him was an explanation that the primary was on the square after the morning paper had rebuked the party for defeating two estimable gentlemen for renomination to the board of aldermen. Perhaps, the "Smith Democrats" have been duly chastened; for Mr. Lang is cheerful over the prospects for the local ticket. Mr. Lang managed Tom Harrison's campaign for the nomination last year and for election, she was a manager of the primary this year and is managing the campaign this fall. When we consider how fortunate Mr. Lang was with his primary last year and with his primary this year, and how unfortunate he was with his political forecast last fall; we must accord him 100 per cent on primary efficiency, but mark him deficient in political prescience.

THE BIG THIRD PARTY VOTE.

While statesmen, politicians and the press in the early days of the campaign were discussing problems of statecraft, economics and "issues," the people remained unresponsive. They were thinking of matters that laid deeper than trade relations; they were thinking about men.

A panic had just prostrated business. And the worst feature of it was that men were out of work. Men were hungry, that was it. The productive capacity of the country was just as great, the demand, if want is the measure of it, was just as pressing, and the supply was ample; but some were in need. Why was this?

It seemed a useless and senseless panic. Indeed, the chief producing element of the country was undisturbed, except favorably—the farming class. If governmental policy had a hand in the cause of it, the government can be blamed only with enforcing the law in the way the people have been crying for; compelling transportation lines to cease granting rebates to favorite shippers and forcing illegal combinations in restraint of trade to disband.

Various reasons for the disorder have been assigned. Some have said that powerful influences inimical to the administration, which spoiled their designs, produced the panic to stop the reform. Others believe that overcapitalized railroads, instead of spending the surplus of large road issues in double tracking their lines, and installing automatic signals so as to double their facilities for handling freight both ways, thus reducing the cost and increasing profits, and instead of abolishing grade crossings to save human lives, were spending these millions acquiring competing lines, and in purchasing coal mines and industries along their lines, which they favor in rates. When these were attacked Wall street shivered, and the chilled life blood of commerce retreated to its common center.

Not until Mr. Hearst got into the campaign did interest revive.
Those were human documents he read in his purloined correspondence between Mr. Archibald and some statesmen; and the people were very much alive to humanity. We human beings are destined for an average period of 35 years to linger on this planet. What is more important than making this sojourn as endurable and pleasant as possible and preparing ourselves for the next world? Peace and pauper, trust magnate, union laborer, "scab," harlot and professional man, we are all destined to the same earthly life. When you get down to that proposition you are arguing something more fundamental than political economy, are you not?

Now, does one ask why Socialism and Hearstism are promising to poll such huge votes this year? It is because they are appealing to men on the principle that the men themselves are more important than the adjustment of the tariff or the policies of state. We don't say their remedies for evils, real and imaginary, are right, but we do say that they recognize the trend of popular thought and do offer a remedy.

THREE PLANS ARE OFFERED.

Thus we have three plans from which to choose this fall. The liberal public party declares that in the evolution of business, the prevention of waste by co-operation and economy has become the modern principle.
Socialism prophesies that this principle will evolve into the principle of socialistic government. Bryan declares that all forms of combinations—excepting those that vote—are wrong and we should return to the old-time cut-throat, wasteful, extravagant system. To secure this he recommends a reduction of the tariff and an arbitrary supervision of private business for the purpose of limiting individual control of production, whether that control be the result of inventive genius, thrift or lawlessness. In other words, while declaring competition to be the natural law, he must needs recommend drastic artificial means to secure it.

Now the tariff did not produce either trusts or monopolies; because the tariff that fostered one concern, fostered alike all other concerns in the same line; and trusts are but groups of competing concerns working under a mutual agreement. It was the fierce strife of competition that drove them into combination, finding it easier to fight together than against one another.

Wasn't it rather discrimination in freight rates in favor of one competitor over another, thus giving him an advantage in the market, that enabled that competitor to force the others from the field? But it was in the effort to stop this sort of wrong doing, that the administration, accused of causing a panic, brought down on its devoted head the undying hatred of all unlawful monopolists. It was in recognition of this economic wrong that Mr. Bryan advocated his now discarded proposition for government ownership of railroads. That was the only proposal on his part to remedy this crying wrong. He does not offer to proceed with the Roosevelt program to stop rebating; but plans now only to put limitations on the producer. Judge Taft was a pioneer advocate of rate regulation and suggested the idea to President Roosevelt.

THE FIGHT FOR THE OFFICES.

Mr. Hearst's exposures have made this trust business a matter of human interest. Bryan's advocates have made capital of this by declaring the Republican party has been in power so long it has become corrupt, an acknowledgment on their part that they do not feel themselves incorruptible. Yet the only responsibility the administration must shoulder is for calling popular attention to it. No connection between such men as Roosevelt, Root, Taft and Garfield and the predatory interests can be shown. The latter fought Roosevelt's administration with their representatives in the congress; they made common cause against Taft before the nomination; and their man Foraker and others have failed to conceal their attitude toward him since.

It is not Republican senators alone, who are debauched by the Standard Oil. The correspondence with Joe Bailey, of Texas, indicates that whenever a Democratic senator—lawyer approaches the intellectual capacity of a Foraker he is subjected to the same temptations. Great legal ability is what the Standard wants and pays for; and that there are few Democrats bought up, perhaps, accounts for the blind fury of the majority against the evil.

But supposing it was a fight "to turn the rascals out," what relief has Mr. Bryan to offer. We will except our friend and neighbor, Urey Woodson. We know him and love him, vigorous parliamentarian that he is.
Would you exchange anyone of the cabinet group around Roosevelt or the friends of Taft for "Fingy" Connors, of the Buffalo docks; Charles Murphy, the Tammany boss; Roger Sullivan, of Illinois; Tom Targart, of Indiana—or Haskell, of Oklahoma?

Foraker has been exposed. Yes; but he is the enemy of Taft; as a benchman "Boss" Cox, of Cincinnati. And Foraker defied his accusers to prosecute him in court. It is but a few days since Mr. Bryan claimed the same sort of thing for his friend Haskell—constructive assumption of innocence until proven guilty in court. That is what the president happily calls "Law honesty." Anything is honesty that is not a direct violation of an express statute.

Our Socialist friends will dismiss this chapter as a quarrel over the offices.

WHERE WILL YOU TURN?

If the Republican program is wrong in holding illegal combinations in restraint of trade and rate discrimination evils to be eradicated; the preservation of the protective tariff essential to the welfare of home industries that they may pay a higher wage than is paid in Europe in aiding the farmer to maintain the price of his products; in facilitating means of commerce on our inland waterways; the irrigation of desert lands;
the draining of swamps; the conservation of natural resources; the encouragement of trade relations with South America and the Orient; and the execution of our colonial trust for the benefit of the colonies; then one must turn either to Democracy or to Socialism.

What has Mr. Bryan to offer business? He says Roosevelt caused the panic; yet he would crush the trusts by tariff revision and restrict trade by arbitrary limitations and a system of espionage, besides making an inventory of railroad holdings with hired experts to expose their assets to the prospective buyers of stock. Would that heighten or lessen panic conditions?

If a reduction of the tariff would ruin a strong industrial trust, what would it do to a weak competitor?
What does Bryan offer in the way of currency reform since his free silver heresy has been discarded? A bank deposit guaranty, that, instead of protecting the depositor, would encourage speculation with the depositor's money.

Do the banks depend on the general prosperity of the country for their welfare? If they do not, why do banks suffer in times of panic?
If they are thus related to the welfare of the community, would not bankers favor any conservative system that would encourage depositors to trust them and that would prevent runs in times of panic? Let us remember that bankers led the fight against Bryan in the days of "free silver" and were denounced as vampires by the "Boy Orator of the Platte." The National Bankers' association at Denver Thursday denounced the deposit guaranty in measured terms as "superficially pleasing, but fallacious and sophistical."

Thus we see repeated the old story of Bryanism with the same opposition. His election would only turn over the offices to Democratic epistles who declare tenure of office brings corruption, and afford him an opportunity to try some experiments with free silver, free trade, anti-imperialism, government ownership, "trust busting," trade espionage, etc.

Then there is Socialism. If one prefers that.
If he likes the Roosevelt program, there is Taft. He is part of the present administration, father of some of its policies, guardian of many others. He is a tried judge and administrator. His courage has been tested by his refusal to compromise with political influences in his own state. His nomination was opposed by those interests with which Foraker and Haskell are identified.

We have no apologies to make for the Dingley tariff. Its schedules have been in existence longer than any other tariff ever lasted without being revised.

We have no apologies for the Forakers and Aldrichs, even if Mr.
Bryan has for Haskell. If Mr. Roosevelt was not better than his party, we should have to discard the law of averages. He has distinctly improved the tone of it and directed its policies to a higher plane. His record is a proud one. He has made it better. He came at a critical period in our evolution. Predecessors have considered only business.
He has given heed to the toiler. He was inevitable with his keen sympathies and ready pen and tongue, just as the judicious, calm, immovably honest Taft is logical.

The Port of Missing Men.

"You see, Miss Clingstone, your brother is quite right, but I very much hope you will not run away. There are some things to be explained which it is only fair you should hear."

"Wait, Shirley, and we will all go down together," said Judge Claiborne reluctantly.
Baron von Marhof, very handsome and distinguished, but much spindlier than his horse to a post in the driveway and stood on the veranda steps, his hat in his hand, staring, a look of bewilderment on his face. Armlitage, broadheaded, still in his riding leathers, his trousers spindlier and his left arm sleeveless and supported by a handkerchief swung from his neck, shook hands with Judge Claiborne.

"Baron von Marhof, allow me to present Mr. Armlitage," said Dick, and a Auntie walked to the steps and bowed. The and a waiter did not offer his hand.

"Would you please come in?" said Armlitage, smiling upon them, and when they were seated he took his stand by the fireplace, hesitated a moment, as though weighing his words, and began:

"Baron von Marhof, the events that have led to this meeting have been somewhat more than unusual—they are unique. And complications have arisen which require prompt and wise action. For this reason I am glad that we shall have the benefit of Judge Claiborne's advice."

"Judge Claiborne is the counsel of our embassy," said the ambassador. His gaze was fixed intently on Arm-litage's face, and he hitched himself forward in his chair impatiently, grasping his own nervous fingers as he listened. "You were anxious to find me, Baron, and I must have seemed hard to catch, but I believe we have been working in cross purposes to serve the same interest."

The Baron nodded.
"Yes, I dare say," he remarked dryly. "And some other gentlemen of not quite your own standing have at the same time been seeking me. It will give me great pleasure to present one of them—no, I believe, will be enough."

Mr. Claiborne, will you kindly allow Mr. Jules Chauvenet to stand in the door for a moment? I want to ask him a question."

Shirley, sitting farthest from Armlitage, folded her hands upon the long table and looked toward the door into which her brother vanished. Then, as his eyes met hers for a second, the color rose to his face, and he broke out angrily:

"This is infamous! This is an outrage! Baron von Marhof, as an Austrian subject I appeal to you for protection from this man!"

"Monsieur, you shall have all the protection Baron von Marhof craves to give you, but first I wish to ask you a question—just one. You followed me to America with the fixed purpose of killing me. You sent a Serbian assassin after me—a fellow with a reputation for doing dirty work—and he tried to strike a knife into me on the deck of the King Edward. I shall not readily relinquish my subsequent experiences with him or with King and St. Durand. You announced at Captain Claiborne's table at the Army and Navy club in Washington that I was an impostor, and all the time, monsieur, you have really believed me to be some one—some one in particular."

Arm-litage's eyes glittered, and his voice faltered with intensity as he undered these last words. Then he thrust his hand into his coat pocket, stepped back and concluded:

"Who am I, monsieur?"
Chauvenet shifted uneasily from one foot to the other under the gaze of the five people who waited for his answer, then he screamed shrilly:

"You are the devil—an impostor, a liar, a thief!"

Baron von Marhof leaped to his feet and roared at Chauvenet in English:

"Who is this man? Whom do you believe him to be?"

"Answer, and be quick about it!" snapped Claiborne.

"I tell you"—began Chauvenet fiercely—"Who am I?" asked Armlitage again.

"I don't know who you are!" "You do not! You certainly do not!" laughed Armlitage. "But who have you believed me to be, monsieur?"

"I thought—" "Yes, you thought!"

CLEVELAND LETTER

Broughton BRANDENBURG TELLS ABOUT SECURING IT.

Man Who Sold Article to New York Times Explains Arrangements With Former President.

New York, Oct. 3.—Broughton Brandenburg, who sold to the New York Times the article alleged to have been written by Grover Cleveland, was questioned by District Attorney Jerome. Later he issued a long statement giving his side of the case. Mr. Brandenburg says, in part:

"Having known Mr. Cleveland, and obtained various interviews and statements from him, I was engaged late in last February by F. C. Drake, then Sunday editor of the New York Herald, to secure from Mr. Cleveland an article on 'Personal Liberty vs. Public Trust,' meant to have a bearing on Hughes' racing legislation and the temperance movement. I met the ex-president by appointment at his office at 1 Madison avenue, and got what I wanted."

"In the course of the talk I suggested that, inasmuch as his pen was the source of secondary income to him, he write what he had to say and let me sell it, I being able to plan it to better advantage than he."

"We discussed the matter, and he accepted my offer of $2,000 for three articles, one to appear, say, in August on the field of politics, one in September, on doubtful issues, and one in late October on doubtful states. I was aware that the principal objection to his articles in magazine circles was their usual obscurity and involved phraseology. I ventured to mention this fact, whereupon he laughed and really did make an effort to write shorter sentences and simpler phrases, to the detriment of his style, however, I fear."

"It was the 5th of March and I visited him in the morning. When I returned in the afternoon he had really a bundle of 'little sheets,' some yellow and some white, on which he had written on each subject."

Mr. Brandenburg says he suggested several changes and made a typewritten copy.

"Again he corrected, interlined, scratched out, wrote over and I took the whole away to my home and re-typed it," continues the agent. "When I took the manuscript back to Mr. Cleveland I signed it with an air of satisfaction."

The Pay of Army Officers.
A glance over the army list shows that over two-thirds of the officers are receiving less pay per day than good mechanics receive in civil life. The officer has no home; but must be prepared to live in the armies or the tropics and change from one to the other at short notice. He must have equipment for both, and while in one place the equipment for the other is stored and deteriorating. He is sent on long journeys to distant stations, and must suffer banishment from his family or take them along—either is a great expense, on one hand for travel, and on the other for maintenance of two establishments. His changes of station are so frequent that he must put his children in costly private schools or see them grow up in ignorance. Because he is an officer of the United States service, to use the respectability of his position to add to his income, com-mercially, is regarded as reprehensible, and if he makes an investment he must instruct his interests to an agent.—Army and Navy Life.

Endow Homes for the Aged.
The privately endowed homes for the aged constitute a form of benevolence most praiseworthy. Those blessed with abundant means cannot make a better use of their surplus than to direct it into this channel. It is nothing less than torture for a man or woman accustomed to refined surroundings to be obliged to go to a public almshouse; but in these privately endowed homes their declining years are passed in comfort and usually in contentment. There cannot be too many such homes. It is almost always feasible for an aged person of good life and character to secure the fee required for admission. There is generally some relative or group of friends to furnish it, if the applicant has nothing left from his or her former prosperity. The inmates are not regarded as paupers falling to his inability to start at the need and feel an humiliation. The

May Stewart.

Shakespeare's great comedy holds the boards at The Kentucky Monday night, October 5. This will be Miss Stewart's first appearance in Paducah, but the announcement of her coming has aroused considerable interest among the play-goers and neighboring towns. Shakespearean attractions and stars of Miss Stewart's standing are not to be seen in Paducah every week, and no doubt the theater goers will avail themselves of this opportunity. The offer log will be a musical production of "As You Like It," with Miss Stewart in the role of Rosalind.

COAL AND SECOND BUTLER.

White House Servant Has Vacation.

The "second butler" of the white house and the repairs and fuel of the executive mansion have become bewilderingly involved in some official correspondence between the superintendent of the public buildings and grounds and the controller of the Treasury.

It appears that the second butler receives his compensation of $60 per month from the white house allotment for repairs and fuel, and he wants to go on leave and spend it at Oyster Bay, where he will remain during the date set for the departure of the special train which will bring back to Washington the president and his office force and the household servants. It is asked by Col. Brownell if the butler can receive, in addition to his pay, a sum which shall equal the cost of his railroad fare back to Washington, and it was decided that this case be made "special."

The controller agrees to the proposition in these trenchant words: "It appears that the president approved the application for leave and also the proposal to spend it in Oyster Bay. The only reasonable interpretation that can be put upon the approval of the proposal to spend the leave in Oyster Bay is that it was intended to affect the right of the employee to traveling expenses, at its expiration, I am of the opinion, therefore, that the manner in which the leave was approved should be considered as the equivalent of an authority from the president to perform the travel in question at its expiration on public business. The appropriation, 'Repairs, fuel, etc., executive mansion' would therefore be applicable to pay said expenses."

All of which is highly edifying and shows the elasticity of the acts of congress making appropriations for the maintenance of the government institutions, including the residence of the head of the nation.—Washington Herald.

Kaiser Is Loser.

In spite of some irresponsible gossip to the contrary, it is not believed that Kaiser Wilhelm has ever set foot in France since his accession to the throne. He has never seen Paris since his youth.

It is a notable fact, and one to excite sympathy and regret, that the great arbiter of all German art has never seen the Paris of today, where the arts are supposed most to thrive. He has never been in the opera or the new Opera Comique. He knows the change of vogue in the famous boulevard restaurants only by hearsay. The Argentinville is a legend to him, and he must look in his larder to see how the pictures are now arranged in the Louvre galleries. The "Boul' Mich' is a dim memory, and he has never traded in the Bon Marche. Poor Kaiser Wilhelm! His brother monarchs know it all by heart, but the cheapest German tourist can give him points on the trip to Paris.—New York Times.

Hayti Must Reform.

A continuance of misrule, turbulence and absolute lack of advance in the arts of civilization in Hayti may compel the United States to take some action dictated by its own interests. The American government and people would rejoice to see Hayti peaceful and prosperous as an independent republic, but they cannot be expected to forever tolerate at their very doors such a state of affairs as almost constantly prevails in the black republic.—New York Herald.

DUN'S REVIEW.

New York, Oct. 3.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review today says:

Seasonable weather stimulated retail trade materially, and the better distribution to consumers brought a larger movement in wholesale and jobbing departments, but in most leading industries there is still hesitancy. Low stocks of merchandise necessitate urgency in replenishment when dealers find retail buying on a normal scale, as is the case in many sections of the country, but preparations for distant requirements proceeded cautiously, although the expressions of confidence are heard on all sides. On the whole there is improvement in mercantile collections, yet in many lines, especially at the east, irregularity is noted. Many factories have further increased the number of hands at work.

While new business comes most conservatively to the steel mills, orders on hand are sufficient to maintain the current rate of production during October, and activity is confidently expected next month. Railway buying continues limited. Recent contracts and two new orders of vessels call for a large tonnage of plates and other steel shapes. Only a fair demand for pig iron is noted, with quotations barely maintained on forward business, but orders are chiefly for shipment before the end of the year.

Textile production has increased, and in some divisions of the primary cotton goods market there is improvement, but little definite change is expected until 1909. Spot goods are expected to attract buyers, practically no contracts covering distant deliveries, which is an element of strength for the future, although an adverse influence at the present time. The strong feature of the statistical position is the knowledge that considerable business could be secured by making slight concessions. In woolens there is some pressure for quicker deliveries of sample pieces and a little new business, but duplicate orders have not begun to appear.

A little increase is recorded in both sales and shipments of shoes, but reports from traveling men in New England manufacturers indicate a tendency to defer purchases as long as possible. This applies to both supplementary fall orders and spring samples.

Leather continues quiet, the lower grades moving most freely, and tanners insist on full prices. Tanners exhibit little interest, taking only such lots as are needed for immediate business.

S.S.S. HEALS SORES AND ULCERS

Sores and Ulcers are indications of impure blood. They show that the circulation has become infected with germs and poisons, which are being constantly discharged into the open place to irritate the delicate nerves, tissues and surrounding flesh and keep the sore in a state of inflammation and disease. Whether these impurities in the blood are the result of some debilitating sickness, an old taint from a former disease, or whether it is hereditary bad blood, there is but one way to cure sores and ulcers, and that is to purify the blood. Washes, salves, lotions, etc., are often beneficial because of their cleansing, antiseptic effects, but nothing applied to the surface can reach the blood, where the real cause is, and therefore cannot cure. S. S. S. is the remedy for sores and ulcers of every kind. It gets down to the very bottom of the trouble and removes every trace of impurity or poison, and makes a lasting cure. S. S. S. changes the quality of the circulation, so that instead of feeding the diseased parts with impurities, it nourishes and heals the irritated, inflamed flesh and causes the ulcer to fill in with healthy tissue by supplying it with pure, rich blood. Book on Sores and Ulcers and any medical advice desired sent free to all who write.

WHY GIRLS CANNOT THROW

An Anatomical Reason For a Female Penitence.

Boys from time immemorial have made all manner of sport on the subject of the inability of girls to throw a stone. They suppose, of course, that it is a matter of knack and practice, and that a girl could really throw a stone with as much force as a boy if she "knew how," and throw as many. The best medical authorities, however, suggest another reason.

The difference between a girl's throwing and a boy's is substantially this: The boy crooks his elbow and reaches back with the upper part of his arm about at right angles with his body, and the forearm at an angle of 45 degrees. The direct act of throwing is accomplished by bringing the arm back with a sort of snap, working every joint from shoulder to wrist.

The girl throws with her whole arm rigid; the boy with his whole arm relaxed. Why this marked and unmistakable difference exists may be explained by the fact that the clavicula or collar bone is the feminine anatomy is some inches longer and set some degree lower down than in the masculine frame. The long, awkward bone interferes with the full and free use of the arm. This is the reason why a girl cannot throw a stone.—Philadelphia Record.

THE BANK FIGURES DON'T REVEAL ALL

Study of Oklahoma Conditions Shows Another Side.

State Deposit in Guaranteed Institutions Largely Responsible for the Big Increase.

PUBLIC FUNDS MAIN FACTOR

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 3.—The guaranty deposit law which recently went into effect in Oklahoma, whereby state banks are assessed 1 per cent of their deposits to establish a guaranty fund for the protection of depositors, has been used freely in the present campaign. Mr. Bryan has referred to the benefits which it is supposed to confer and the figures quoted in speeches by his adherents look distinctly impressive from a distance. They should not be accepted at their face value, however, as a little analysis of the actual condition which exists here will make plain.

Mr. Bryan has emphasized the undeniable fact that since the new banking regulations went into effect the deposits in the state banks have been swelled, while those in the national banks have fallen off. The figures he used were compiled by the Oklahoma state banking board. More recent figures, showing two months not included by Mr. Bryan, reveal the fact that between December 3, 1907, and July 15, 1908, the national banks lost in deposits $1,497,740. The state banks during the same period gained $4,000,991, making a net gain for the state of $2,503,251 in deposits. Deposits in the national banks for the period were diminished from $38,318,729 to $36,820,989, while the state banks increased their deposits from $17,215,525 to $21,216,526. These figures are shown in tabular form as follows:

National Bank Deposits.
Dec. 3, 1907.....$38,318,729
July 15, 1908.....$36,820,989

National banks lost.....$1,497,740
State Bank Deposits.
Dec. 3, 1907.....$17,215,525
July 15, 1908.....$21,216,526

State banks increased.....$4,000,991
Increase state banks December to July.....$4,000,991
Decrease national banks December to July.....$1,497,740

Net increase, both systems.....$2,503,251

State Funds Big Factor.

On the face of it this table is an excellent argument for the new Oklahoma system of guaranteeing bank deposits, but when subjected to analysis certain features are discovered that merit study.

The decrease in national bank deposits during the seven months was practically a million and a half dollars. More than four-fifths of this sum, however, is represented by state funds, which were withdrawn from the national banks because they could not or would not avail themselves of the guaranty system. Only about one-fifth of the million and a half of dollars, therefore, represents savings drawn out by individual depositors.

The increase for the state banks was, roughly, $4,000,000. During the period of the increase Oklahoma received from the outside $5,000,000 her portion of the school fund, which came to her when statehood was effected. The last of this sum was paid in July 1. Almost every cent of this sum was deposited in banks having the guaranty plan in operation, so that national banks did not profit.

Bryan Figures Misleading.
Not more than $1,000,000 of this fund has left the state for any purpose. It is only natural to suppose that most of the remaining $4,000,000 has found its way into the banks. Subtract the $1,500,000 decrease suffered by the national banks from the $4,000,000 of increase in the state banks and the net gain in deposits is found to be only $2,500,000 of increase, as against the $4,250,000 mentioned by Mr. Bryan. With the $5,000,000 included in the school fund eliminated it will be apparent that a different showing would be made.

The figures used by the Bryan speakers, showing the net increase in deposits, have been used to illustrate their contention that money was thus brought out of hiding and put into circulation, but if this were true surely the net increase would, when taken in conjunction with the school fund, be vastly greater than it is. The belief among national bankers here is that there has never been much idle money in Oklahoma, and that the amount today is not over $300,000. The new bank plan is thought to have had little effect upon the idle money and the large school fund is looked upon as the true source of the gratifying showing of state banks.

PIONEER OF TODAY.

Influence Through Which West Is Coming to Greatness and Power.

I recall one woman I met in a little grave-roof log house in the dry hills of Idaho, eighty miles from the railroad. She had a singularly attractive face and her home, though poor, was as neat as a pin. She probably did not see a visitor once a week, and during the day, while the men were at work, she was entirely alone except for her two small children. I asked her if she did not grow lonely.

"Oh, no," she replied; "there are the Petersens over there"—a speck on the sage-covered hills—"and the Warrens over there"—and she shaded her eyes and looked off across the sun-blinding plain to another speck on the horizon—"and nearly every day some team passes on the way to the basin."

The nearest school was twenty-six miles away, so she had to teach her own children; the nearest doctor was thirty miles. She told me with a catch in her voice how one of her children, a little girl, had been down with scarlet fever the winter before. The snow lay deep on the hills, so that even the mail-carrier, who usually came through twice a week, could not break the road. Her husband, however, saddled his horse and started, leaving her a one with the child. He was gone four days and when he came back, half dead with fatigue, having walked the last twenty-five miles, he brought only the word that the doctor could not come. And so they watched in the baby's bed until the little thing was out of danger.

It is difficult for people in an old, settled country to realize what pioneering means. For though the country is rapidly settling up, the distances are enormous, the roads often rough, and communication with the outside world is uncertain. Some of the counties of the northwest are as large as the smaller eastern states. From a place where I once stopped in Wyoming it required five days' hard traveling to reach the county seat, a distance, by the only road, of over 150 miles. I was told of a sheriff in Harney county, Ore., who traveled 170 miles to summon a juror. One can imagine the cost of litigation to resort to the easy and speedy court of the six-shooter.

That it is by these hardships of the trail and of the pioneer home that the west is coming to greatness and power. The frontier is one of the most evident signs, himself somewhat of a failure, of the invading army of civilization. He is the spine which the invading wave of humanity thrusts up; the wave itself will soon be deep and lasting over all the west—July Century.

We Startled a Good Many People with our Heater Offer—Did You Read It?

We put some statements about heating stoves down in black and white that stove users never heard before. We want to repeat them!

Remember, we are backed by one of the grandest stove manufacturing concerns in the world—yes, backed by a concern that makes and sells more soft coal heaters each year by three times than any other maker anywhere.

So there are millions of dollars behind what we have to say about heaters this year!

This heating wonder—this magic reducer of the fuel bill—this handsome steel, iron and nickel comfort giver is the Original patented Cole's Hot Blast from Chicago.

This remarkable heater is made by only one concern—the Cole Manufacturing Co. of Chicago. And it is sold by only one store here—ours. We have the exclusive selling agency.

To us alone is given the right to make the most unusual guarantee ever made on a heating stove.

Read it. It will open your eyes. It will show you that your stove money will do far more than you thought it would.

Here is our authority from the President of the Cole Manufacturing Co.—the strongest guarantee ever made on a heater.

"You are authorized to sell the Original Cole's Hot Blast Heater this year on the most rigid guarantee ever made by any stove manufacturer. Our guarantee to every customer of yours is—

- "1.—A saving of one-third in fuel over any lower draft stove of the same size, with soft coal, slack or lignite.
- "2.—That Cole's Hot Blast will use less hard coal for heating a given space than any base burner made with same size fire pot.
- "3.—That the rooms can be heated from one to two hours each morning with the soft coal or hard coal put in the stove the evening before.
- "4.—That the stove will hold fire with soft coal from Saturday night until Monday morning.
- "5.—A uniform heat day and night with soft coal, hard coal or lignite.
- "6.—That every stove will remain absolutely air-tight as long as used.
- "7.—That the feed-door is and will remain smoke and dust-proof.
- "8.—All we ask is that the stove shall be operated according to directions and set up with a good flue.

"(Signed) COLE MANUFACTURING CO.,
(Makers of the Original Patented Hot Blast Stove.)

Cole's Hot Blast $10 Up

And the fine feature is that you get this guarantee on a truly low-priced stove—at the same time it is one that will last a lifetime, and as long as it lasts it is guaranteed to remain a perfect heater.

Shouldn't this be your stove choice? Handsome—durable—economical. No kindling and rebuilding of the fire in the morning. Simply open the draft.

You dress in a warm room.
You eat in a warm room.
You live in an even temperature—and even temperature is health. Even temperatures mean colds or worse. The earlier you get the stove the longer your season of comfort. Look at once. Why not come in tomorrow?

F. N. GARDNER, JR., CO.

Remember, we are the only dealer here selling Cole's Original Hot Blast—the name COLE'S on the feed door.

LARGE CROWD

HEARD THE POPULIST CANDIDATE FOR CONGRESS.

About 600 People of Mechanicsburg Attended Speaking—Democrats and Socialists.

A crowd of about 600 voters heard the speaking at the corner of Clemons and Jarrett streets in Mechanicsburg last night by J. Will Graham, Populist nominee for congress, John G. Miller, candidate for the Democratic nomination for circuit judge, and Charles McQuarter, a Socialist lecturer. The speakers were frequently applauded.

Nervousness. Nervousness is often due to some poison formed in the blood, by the decomposition of undigested food—in other words, often arises primarily from indigestion.

Nervousness when due to this cause may sometimes continue through many years without causing dangerous conditions. On the other hand, nervous disturbances due to the auto-intoxication, or self-poisoning, may be immediately fatal.

Many people, however, suffer from "nervous indigestion," as they call it, for twenty years or more without fatal termination. In these cases there is, of course, a gradual weakening of the general system which predisposes to many diseases, and death is always premature, usually being traceable to what is called "heart failure."—Health Culture.

President.

William H. Taft is the third secretary of war to become a presidential nominee, and neither of the other two was successful. They were William H. Crawford, of Georgia, in 1824, and Lewis Cass, of Michigan, in 1848. Gen. Grant was secretary of war, but only an interim.—Chicago Tribune.

There is a dangerous stage in every one's career when his friends are afraid to tell him a compliment, for fear it will make him more conceited.

SHE NEARLY KNEW HIM.

Little Girl Who Lived Across Street Tells Her Memories of John D.

They were talking about our neighbor across the way, says Clara Morris, in the September Delinquent. "I did not know him. I did not even know his name, but I heard Mr. Herrick say 'I tell you, I feel it in my very bones that some day that young man is going to hold one of the world's great fortunes in his grip!'"

Mr. Wade, as he dragged his great chair up to it, said a bit sharply:

"Herrick is taking a long look ahead perhaps, but—" A silence fell; when I distinctly heard the three slow taps of his forefinger on the bare table as he finished with emphasis, "That man—will go far—watch!"

The clock struck, my mother's too touched me warmly. I rose, fairly trembling with excited interest in the man who was going to be very wealthy—who lived right across the street, and who was "going far." Even in that first confusion of thought, I almost prayed he might not start before I could see him.

I was determined to stalk the fascinating man, who like the fairy prince, was going forth to make his mark; to win a great fortune and to "go far." How far? Where to? Would he ever come back?

At last I saw him; very tall, very slender, very fair or else very pale, he seemed a very young grown-up. He came quickly down to the gate and paused an instant—and then swift panic came upon me, and I turned and fled.

My constant watching I came to know the small tricks of manner and movement of the man who would "go far." He was always very, very neat. He always stepped out of the door very quickly, then gave himself a swift glance over; laid an investigating finger on his black tie, stretched out an arm and brushed his sleeve with a stroke of his palm, and then started swiftly for the gate.

Now every other resident of our street either left their gate swinging or banged it violently behind them. But, the man who was "going far" always stopped on to the sidewalk, turned, drew the gate toward him, then with both hands lifted it slightly and latched it silently, and was off, his long legs reminding me of compasses.

And once, just once, as mother and I and Mr. Herrick were walking, the tall young man met us fairly and paused. Mr. Herrick looked up, smiled, raised a hand to his hat and said pleasantly, "Ah, good evening, Mr. Rockefeller!"

An Overcast Painting.

Frank E. Elwell, the noted New York sculptor, tells this: "When Sir John Millais was engaged in painting his 'Chill October' among the rushes on the banks of the Tay, near Perth, a railway porter from the station at Kinfauns came to carry the canvas back and forth for him.

"The porter was a quaint chaff; his services were called for many days in requisition he became quite friendly with Sir John and seemed to take a hearty interest in the progress of the painting.

"Well, 'Chill October' was eventually finished, and sold a little while afterward for a thousand pounds. This fact somehow reached the porter's ears. He met Sir John's brother-in-law at Kinfauns one day and said excitedly:

"Mon, it's true that Sir John's sold 't picture and got a thousand pound for it?"

"Yes, certainly," was the reply.

"A thousand pound!" repeated the porter. "Why, mon, I wadna gien half a croon for't."—Philadelphia Record.

THE STANTONS

FATHER, MOTHER AND DAUGHTER IN SERVICES.

Famous Salvation Army Family Have Taken Hold of Work in Real Earnest.

The new Salvation Army officers, Captain and Mrs. Arthur E. Stanton, who arrived in Paducah last Tuesday evening, are taking hold of the Salvation Army work assigned to them in real earnest. Wednesday they conducted two street services and on Thursday evening, each being largely attended. Mrs. Stanton is a powerful speaker and captivates her audience from the very beginning. Captain Stanton is an exceptionally good speaker, as all Welshmen are.

He was a close neighbor to Evan Roberts, the great Welsh revivalist. The Stantons have been making a very spiritual tent campaign previous to their coming to Paducah, several members having been added to the churches as the result of their labors.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanton are ably assisted by their little baby evangelist, Anna Stanton. Although only 11 years old, she takes active part in all services, speaking, singing and praying. The Stantons will conduct services this afternoon and tonight at 7 o'clock services at Fourth street and Broadway, at 8:15 p. m. at Third street and Broadway.

Sunday they will conduct services near the river on Broadway and at various places.

The Stantons work with all the Evangelical churches and they solicit the prayers of all good people in their spiritual behalf in this their new field of labor.

Occasionally a listener hears good of himself after talking into a phonograph.

LAST CHANCE!

COAL WILL ADVANCE!

FAIR WARNING!

Below is what the coal mine operators and railroad companies tell us: Car famine, demand for coal, low stocks, hard winter expected. Advice from fourteen coal mine operators already that they will advance the price of coal from one to two cents per bushel the first of October. All other coal mine operators will follow, as they have always done before. Only one more week to get your order in on present prices. This is not to frighten the public, but to advise our customers.

To the Public—We warn you to beware of "scoop shovel" dealers. Established dealers cannot afford to mislead you, and their business investments makes them liable for contracts.

BRADLEY, BROS.

The inexperienced "scoop shovel" man is here today and yonder tomorrow, and a bad proposition on a cold winter's morning.
